Executive Summary

RICOH eDiscovery On Demand is powered by VenioOne, our unified platform that powers every phase of electronic discovery: processing, early case assessment, legal analysis, culling, review, and digital production. VenioOne is a complete platform with unparalleled agility and ease-of-use – scalable from small to large data sets, deployable locally or in the cloud.

The Challenge

Looking to build upon their reputation as a trusted partner with deep experience and expertise in investigation, litigation, and due diligence, RICOH sought to design an ondemand eDiscovery solution to increase the operational efficiency of their processing services and expedite turnaround times for client data.

Implement a secure, user friendly and cost efficient electronic discovery solution with central administration and the flexibility to scale seamlessly across multiple internal and client locations.

Collaboration & Customization

RICOH's developers worked collaboratively with our team of experienced software engineers to design RICOH eDiscovery On Demand, a user-friendly, secure, cloudbased solution that allows remote offices and client locations to fully control the eDiscovery process, with system administration managed in a central location. End users can upload Electronically Stored Information (ESI) for processing, analysis, review and production - 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year.

RICOH eDiscovery onDemand

- Anywhere, anytime availability
- Easy-to-use user interface
- Industry leading security in the Microsoft® Azure™ Cloud
- Automatic alerts and status updates
- Data analysis and review functionality

“Tight discovery deadlines and growing volumes of data, can make the eDiscovery process complex. eDiscovery On Demand supports efficient eDiscovery processing, culling, review and production at a moment’s notice, and without the infrastructure costs typically associated with a specialized environment.” - David Greetham, Vice President, eDiscovery Sales and Operations Ricoh USA
